1. The Schwerin-Coerries (L 54/T 46) airfield was still occupied by Soviet army troops wearing black-bordered, red epaulets on 26 January 1950. About 60 young soldiers were drilling on the field section which was off limits for civilians.

2. The field was not occupied by aircraft on 3 February 1950. Part of the landing field was released as pasture land to the civilian population and the other part had bomb craters and trenches. The road crossing the landing field was guarded by sentries wearing red-bordered, black epaulets. The field kasernes were occupied. A koch office, with soldiers wearing blue epaulets, was still stationed at the field.

25X1 Comment:

25X1 [REDACTED] the field kasernes were occupied by army units. The presence of air force soldiers mentioned in para 2 has not been confirmed. According to previous reports it is not assumed that an air force unit is stationed at the field. There were no indications of intended reconditioning work on the landing field.
